Management Report of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategy

The fundamental investment objective of First Trust Global Risk Managed Income Index ETF (the “First Trust ETF”) is to replicate, to the extent possible, the performance of the NASDAQ Global Risk Managed Income IndexSM (the “Index”), net of expenses.

The investment strategy of the First Trust ETF is to invest in and hold the constituent securities of the Index in the same proportion as they are reflected in the Index or securities intended to replicate the performance of such Index. The First Trust ETF may also hold cash and cash equivalents or other money market instruments to fund current liabilities.

The Index seeks to provide exposure to a risk managed, globally diversified income portfolio which generates a high yield for the risk taken and consists of liquid, income-bearing ETFs and other exchange traded products across various asset classes.

The Manager may use a sampling methodology in selecting investments for the First Trust ETF. As an alternative or in conjunction with investing in and holding constituent securities, the First Trust ETF may also invest in other securities to obtain exposure to the constituent securities of the applicable Index in a manner that is consistent with the investment objective and investment strategy of the First Trust ETF.

Risk

The risks associated with an investment in the First Trust ETF remain as discussed in the First Trust ETF's most recent prospectus. There have been no significant changes during the reporting period that affected the overall level of risk associated with the First Trust ETF.

Results of Operations

General

The First Trust ETF's total net asset value as of June 30, 2026, was $15,167,186 or $18.94 per unit. The First Trust ETF's total net asset value as of December 31, 2025, was $15,578,735 or $18.31 per unit.

Investment Performance

For the six-month period ended June 30, 2026, the First Trust ETF returned 5.28% compared to the Index return of 5.61%. Unlike the Index, the First Trust ETF's returns are net of fees and expenses.

Performance for the First Trust ETF exhibited a mostly positive trend. During the first quarter, performance was positive across January and February, with a loss in March. Performance was more consistent in the second quarter, with gains registered during all three months.

The First Trust ETF began 2026 with a 21% exposure to equity and ended the first half at 20%. This equity exposure is unique to the Index and differentiates the First Trust ETF from a more typical bond fund. In the chart below, we can see that the relative strength of equities (using the SPY ETF as a proxy) versus government bonds (using the TLT ETF as a proxy) was neutral to slightly negative for much of the first quarter of 2026, rebounding to sharply positive in the second quarter. The First Trust ETF generated positive excess return performance compared to a more standard Bond fund in every month of the first half of 2026. This equity exposure can also provide benefits, as we can see from the differentiated returns in the monthly return chart.

First Trust Global Risk Managed Income Index ETF

Management Report of Fund Performance

For the six-month period ended June 30, 2026

The security weights of the First Trust ETF are determined by Newfound Research using their proprietary model. Index Securities with a higher yield-to-risk profile and positive price momentum are weighted more heavily within the Index. Over the course of the first half of 2026, the model lowered exposure to Rate (government bond) products and Equity, while increasing exposure to High Yield products and Credit (investment grade corporate bonds).

As of June 30, 2026, the First Trust ETF held 80% in fixed income, up 1% since end of 2H'25, with equity exposure down 1%.

The First Trust ETF portfolio experienced modest changes to its allocations across credit categories during the year. Government bonds ("Rate") decreased by 5%. High Yield bonds increased by 2%, with investment grade corporate bonds ("Credit") increasing by 4%.

There were modest changes across Geographies, specifically Canada exposure decreasing by 3%, offset by US exposure increasing 4%; Emerging Markets exposure decreased 2%.

On the individual security level, the iShares S&P/TSX Canadian Preferred Share Index ETF had the largest increase, rising from 12.1% to 17.9% over the course of the year. The largest reduction in weight was for the iShares Convertible Bond Index ETF Trust Units, which was reduced by 2.5%.

Recent Developments

After peaking in late 2022, measures of inflation such as the U.S. Consumer Price Index flattened and started to drift downward throughout much of 2023. Despite a temporary uptick at the beginning of 2024, the CPI year over year change (YoY) cooled back down towards 3.2% in July 2024, with the core CPI even falling below 3% which enabled continuation of the bull market in equities that began in 2023; both measures have been fairly stable since then. With inflation largely stabilized, the Fed started cutting rates in September of 2024, delivering 100 bps of total rate cuts by year-end. The Fed delivered an incremental 75 bps of rate cuts in 2025, while keeping rates on hold in 2026 amidst some potentially transitory inflationary forces due to rising energy prices in the second quarter. While U.S. 10-Year Government bonds saw rates drop by 40 bps during 2025 to 4.17% by year-end, this year has seen rates rebound, especially since the end of February, back up to 4.47% by June 30. In contrast, Canadian 10-year rates are down 5 bps for the year-to-date, ending around 3.38%.

Despite elevated volatility and sharp drawdowns in the first quarter related to the US/Iran conflict and resulting impacts on global energy markets, Canadian equities have extended their strong rally from 2025. The S&P/TSX Composite Index gained another 11.2% in the first half of 2026 on a total return basis, slightly outperforming the S&P 500 which was up 10.2%. If this rally continues, the Index can maintain a healthy allocation to equities while attempting to generate balanced income for long-term investors. If a recession does occur, then the Index can rotate into assets with lower risk to attempt to cushion the losses from a bear market.

(1) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period/year, including the First Trust ETF's proportionate share of the MER of any underlying funds in which the First Trust ETF has invested, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period/year.

(2) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period/year. This includes the First Trust ETF's proportionate share of the commissions of any underlying funds in which the First Trust ETF has invested.

(3) The First Trust ETF's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the First Trust ETF's portfolio advisor manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the First Trust ETF buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period/year. The higher a First Trust ETF's portfolio turnover rate in a period/year, the greater the trading cost payable by the First Trust ETF in the period/year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period/year. There is not necessarily a relationship between high turnover rate and the performance of a First Trust ETF.
